Introduction to “Birthday Celebration of Taipei Xia-Hai City God” on May 13th of the Lunar Calendar

Built in 1856, the Xia-Hai City God temple was located in Dadaocheng, one of the most developed areas in Taiwan at the time. Over the years, it has ensured prosperity and peace through the God’s blessings. Every year the temple holds the annual “City God Birthday Parade” on May 13th of the lunar calendar, a celebration classified as an intangible asset by Taipei City government.

The day time inspection tour is an important activity of the festival. Its scope covers mainly the south of Minzu West Road, the east of Dihua Street, the north of Chang'an West Road, and the west of Chengde Road, The main sacrificial region is the traditional core area of Datong District in Taipei (Figure 1). Every year during this period, believers and store owners along the street set up tables to worship through burning incense sticks and joss paper money to pray for the gods' protection and safety. Various performing art groups also accept the invitation to participate in the parade for entertaining the audience, and competing with each other. On the day of the festival, people from various places in Taiwan come to watch it. The crowded believers and tourists create the exciting atmosphere together with performers and leave unforgettable memories (Figure 2).
